Additional information about speakers and topics below:

Helen M. C. Taylor
Exodus Cry Director of Intervention
Sacramento, California.

10:15 A.M. Plenary I Exodus Cry is an international non-profit committed to abolishing sex trafficking and the commercial sex industry while empowering its victims. Note: Exodus Cry seeks to abolish trafficking by shifting cultural mindsets. They work to change laws and reach out to those caught in the sex industry. Exodus Cry has consultative status with the UN.

Helen has served in the anti-trafficking field for over ten years, in eight countries. She leads teams domestically and internationally (through initiatives at Major World Sporting Events such as the World Cup and Olympics), and they regularly assist sexually exploited women in the sex industry: on the streets, strip clubs, in massage parlors, jails, pornography conventions and over the internet, to lovingly show exploited women a way out. She regularly speaks to faith-based communities and trains leaders in hospitals, universities and jails on human trafficking.

Helen wrote an outreach manual to help train communities in reaching exploited women in their cities, which is utilized world-wide. She also helped launch an online intervention team which confronts sex buyers and disrupts the demand and she recently graduated from the FBI Citizens Academy.

Lisa L. Thompson
Washington, D.C.
National Center on Sexual Exploitation, Vice President of Policy & Research

11:15 A.M. As Vice President of Policy and Research for the National Center on Sexual Exploitation, Lisa conducts analysis on a wide-ranging web of sexual abuse and exploitation issues, with an emphasis on the public health harms of pornography. She also liaises with public officials, advocates, and academics to promote policies aimed at the prevention of harms associated with issues such as child sexual abuse, child-on-child harmful sexual behaviors, sexual objectification, pornography, stripping, prostitution, sexual trafficking, sexual assault, and more. Lisa routinely speaks and trains on sexual abuse and exploitation topics for a diverse range of audiences. Lisa joined NCOSE following nearly two years with World Hope International where as Director of Anti-Trafficking, Lisa oversaw its sex trafficking recovery programs in Cambodia, Liberia, and Sierra Leone. Lisa served for more than 12 years as the Liaison for the Abolition of Sexual Trafficking for The Salvation Army USA National Headquarters. Lisa is a contributing author to Hands that Heal: International Curriculum for Caregivers of Trafficking Survivors, as well as the book Global Perspectives on Prostitution and Sex Trafficking: Europe Latin America, North America, and Global.

Lisa earned a Bachelor of Arts in Government from Western Kentucky University, and Master's degree in Leadership, Public Policy and Social Issues from Union Institute and University.

The National Center on Sexual Exploitation (NCOSE) is the leading national organization exposing the links between all forms of sexual exploitation such as child sexual abuse, prostitution, sex trafficking and the public health crisis of pornography. As the thread of pornography in the web of sexual exploitation is systemically overlooked by society, this non-partisan non-profit has prominently advanced this issue as a central pillar of its projects in order to promote more holistic solutions. NCOSE began in 2012 and embraces a mission to defend human dignity and to oppose sexual exploitation.
